ClinicalSkills.net coming soon for all clinical staff

A major expansion of access to ClinicalSkills.net is coming to the Trust, giving all clinical staff access to a comprehensive online learning resource that supports safe, effective and evidence based clinical practice.

ClinicalSkills.net provides more than 400 step by step clinical skills guides covering a wide range of patient focused procedures and interventions. The platform is suitable for all clinical staff groups and can be used to support everyday practice, learning and development, clinical competency and continuing professional development.

The resource includes clinical guidance, instructional videos and best practice information, making it easy to access up to date learning whenever it is needed.

As part of the Trust wide rollout, eligible clinical staff will soon receive an email invitation to activate their account. Once your account has been activated, you will be able to explore the full range of resources available.

Please look out for your activation email and register as soon as it arrives.

You are also encouraged to watch the ClinicalSkills.net introductory video. Further information and guidance will be shared as the rollout progresses.
